Solution for health monitoring and self-quarantine with lodging and food at AOTS Kenshu Center

Since established in 1959, the Association for Overseas Technical Cooperation and Sustainable Partnerships (AOTS) has provide training in Japan for 200,000 engineers from abroad. We take pride in our accumulated experience and know-how to accept international guests. AOTS Kenshu (a Japanese word for "training") Centers provide a safe and secure stay in temporary accommodation, which is mandatory to monitor the health of those entering Japan for COVID-19 infection prevention.

After the current restriction on new entry of foreigners into Japan is relaxed, until the self-quarantine for 14 days is no longer mandated by the Japanese government, vacant rooms of AOTS Kenshu Centers will be available. However, room requests may not be accommodated due to limited capacity.
